$2M MATCH: Donate by April 30!

04/12/23 • COVID › NEWS

Biden to Spend $5 Billion on New Coronavirus Vaccine Initiative Supported by Gates, Fauci and Republican Lawmakers

The U.S. government will spend $5 billion on a program to accelerate the development of new coronavirus vaccines and therapeutics, White House officials announced this week. Project NextGen, a successor to Operation Warp Speed, has bipartisan support and will receive funding from the Bill & Melinda Gates and Rockefeller Foundations.

By Michael Nevradakis, Ph.D.

173

Miss a day, miss a lot. Subscribe to The Defender's Top News of the Day. It's free.

The U.S. government will spend $5 billion on a program to accelerate the development of new coronavirus vaccines and therapeutics, White House officials announced this week in an interview with The Washington Post.

Dubbed "Project NextGen," the new initiative will serve as the successor to the Trump administration's "Operation Warp Speed," launched in March 2020 to expedite the development of COVID-19 vaccines.

Similar to Operation Warp Speed, Project NextGen — with funding from the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation and the Rockefeller Foundation — will encourage public-private partnerships.

According to Reuters, the project will be managed out of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS), which will coordinate across various government agencies and private-sector actors, covering "all phases of development from lab research and clinical trials to delivery."

"Scientists, public heath [sic] experts and politicians have called for the initiative, warning that existing therapies have steadily lost their effectiveness and that new ones are needed," the Post reported.

The new initiative is based on a "roadmap" for the development of new coronavirus vaccines, formulated by the University of Minnesota and led by a former Biden administration official.

A 'roadmap' for 'better' coronavirus vaccines

Operation Warp Speed invested approximately $30 billion in the development, manufacturing and distribution of COVID-19 vaccines, according to USA Today, with six drugmakers each receiving more than $1 billion, along with a promise of a "guaranteed market" if they successfully developed a vaccine.

Project NextGen was originally to be named "Project COVID Shield," after some Republican lawmakers called for the launch of an "Operation Warp Speed 2.0" to build on the Trump administration's legacy.

However, "White House officials wanted some distance from the Trump effort as well as from COVID-focused branding, when much of the country had moved on from the pandemic," the Post reported, quoting two anonymous Biden administration officials.

The new initiative also will be "more modest," and have a "more open-ended mission," unlike Operation Warp Speed, which focused exclusively on COVID-19.

According to USA Today, the initial $5 billion in funding "will be financed through money saved from contracts costing less than originally estimated."

Ashish Jha, White House coronavirus coordinator, said the new initiative has three primary goals: creating longer-lasting vaccines, accelerating the development of nasal vaccines and bolstering efforts to create "broader" pan-coronavirus vaccines.

The project also includes funding for more durable monoclonal antibodies.

The name "Project NextGen," made more sense, Jha said, as it is "a different time" with "a different set of goals." The new name "much more accurately captures what it is that we are trying to do," he said.

Michael Osterholm, Ph.D., M.P.H., director of the Center for Infectious Disease Research and Policy (CIDRAP) at the University of Minnesota, is helping lead the effort.

In February, CIDRAP developed a "roadmap" for the development of "better" coronavirus vaccines. This "roadmap" serves as the basis for Project NextGen.

Osterholm was a member of the COVID-19 advisory board convened by then-president-elect Joe Biden's transition team. The board was dissolved when Biden took office in January 2021.

Jha told the Post, "It's been very clear to us that the market on this is moving very slowly. There's a lot that government can do, the administration can do, to speed up those tools … for the American people."

Previously, during a July 2022 White House coronavirus vaccine summit, Jha said:

> "We need vaccines that are more durable. Vaccines that offer broader and longer-lasting protection. Vaccines that can stand up to multiple variants. Vaccines that can handle whatever Mother Nature throws at us."

Osterholm characterized existing COVID-19 vaccines as "really good" but "not great."

"There is a substantial amount of work [to be done] to take these good vaccines and hopefully achieve better vaccines," Osterholm said.

Osterholm noted that SARS-CoV-2 is the third new coronavirus to appear in the past two decades — Middle Eastern respiratory syndrome (MERS) and severe acute respiratory syndrome (SARS) were the other two. According to Osterholm, it would be "great" to be prepared for a fourth new coronavirus when and if it appears.

Reuters quoted an unnamed HHS spokesperson, who stated:

> "While our vaccines are still very effective at preventing serious illness and death, they are less capable of reducing infections and transmission over time. New variants and loss of immunity over time could continue to challenge our healthcare systems in the coming years.
>
> "Project NextGen will accelerate and streamline the rapid development of the next generation of vaccines and treatments through public-private collaborations. The infusion of a $5 billion investment, at minimum, will help catalyze scientific advancement in areas that have large public health benefits for the American people, with the goal of developing safe and effective tools for the American people."

The Post noted, however, that while the outbreak of new coronaviruses in recent decades has "spurred worries about the potential for future health crises," it might take years to develop a universal coronavirus vaccine, noting that such efforts have been unsuccessful for influenza despite decades of efforts.

Speaking to USA Today, Dr. Paul Offit, director of the Vaccine Education Center at the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia, expressed skepticism about Project NextGen's goals, noting that similar efforts to develop flu and HIV vaccines have been in progress for more than 40 years, without result.

Offit said that the effectiveness of nasal vaccines remains unclear, as they remain in the clinical trial stage at this time. Dr. John Moore, an immunologist at Weill Cornell Medical College in New York, expressed a similar view, saying "it's seriously naïve to believe that it will be easy to make [a nasal vaccine]."

He added that the emphasis on improving existing COVID-19 vaccines, which he described as "amazing," would likely undermine public trust in those vaccines.

Moore told USA Today that "an initiative like this is much needed and should have been put in place much sooner," adding that "Anyone familiar with vaccine development knows that translation into a practical product is a much harder and more expensive process" than the creation of a basic vaccine.

"A lot of designs that look good in the early stages fizzle out because they cannot be manufactured efficiently under the conditions required for human trials," Moore said.

According to Jha though, the new project and its investment in a new generation of coronavirus vaccines "will have very large benefits for other respiratory pathogens we deal with all the time, like flu and RSV."

Gates, Rockefeller Foundations behind Project NextGen

On Feb. 21, CIDRAP published its "roadmap for advancing better coronavirus vaccines" — with $1 million in support from the Gates and Rockefeller Foundations, "To help jump-start the search for better vaccines [and] develop broadly protective vaccines."

According to the project description, the funding was used to assemble "an international collaboration of 50 scientists who mapped out a strategy to make the new vaccines a reality."

Osterholm stated at the time, "If we wait for the next event to happen before we act, it will be too late."

Bruce Gellin, M.D., M.P.H., chief of Global Public Health Strategy at The Rockefeller Foundation, said that there is an "urgency" to take the next steps, calling for an "equivalent" to Operation Warp Speed.

According to CIDRAP, Gellin "has led several federal vaccine initiatives and has been a technical advisor for groups including Gavi, the Vaccine Alliance, COVAX, and the World Health Organization."

The Gates Foundation is a partner of Gavi, The Vaccine Alliance, which, in turn, closely collaborates with the ID2020 Alliance, which promoted the development of digital ID. Microsoft is a founding member of the ID2020 Alliance, as well as Gavi, the BMGF, the World Bank, Accenture and the Rockefeller Foundation.

CIDRAP received the $1 million grant in April 2022, and by October 2022, had developed a draft version of its "roadmap." According to Osterholm, it draws on a similar "roadmap strategy" employed by CIDRAP for previous projects, including the improvement of seasonal flu vaccines and the development of a universal flu vaccine.

For the new "roadmap," these efforts culminated in a 92-page report, and accompanying summary, published in Vaccine journal. The project is divided into five core areas: virology, immunology, vaccinology, animal and human models for vaccine research, and policy and funding.

In an accompanying commentary published in the same issue of Vaccine, Dr. Margaret Hamburg, a former FDA commissioner who is co-president of the InterAcademy Partnership, and Dr. Greg Poland, director of the Mayo Clinic's Vaccine Research Group, said that COVID-19 vaccines have been effective in preventing serious disease.

Hamburg was a participant in the Nuclear Threat Initiative's (NTI) monkeypox pandemic simulation in March 2021, based on a remarkably prescient "fictional" monkeypox outbreak in May 2022. She is also a board member of the Nature Conservancy and vice president of NTI's Global Biological Policy and Programs and is on the board of Gavi.

However, according to Hamburg and Poland, there are some problems with the current vaccines, including "notable reactogenicity" in certain individuals, a short duration of protection, and technical requirements that make them difficult to store and administer in remote locations and areas with low resources.

They said the next-generation vaccines may offer additional benefits such as "new methods of delivery — transdermal patches, oral or intranasal vaccines — which are easy to distribute and apply, stimulate mucosal immunity, and potentially block transmission," adding that this is superior to the current strategy of "chasing" new variants and developing boosters.

Hamburg and Poland said that a universal coronavirus would be easy to stockpile, but the road to the development of such a vaccine could take a "tiered approach," starting with the creation of a "variant-proof" COVID-19 vaccine, followed by developing vaccines that offer broader protection against various coronavirus families.

Members of CIDRAP said in February that funding would be a challenge for the initiatives set forth in their "roadmap," due to "shrinking support for large-scale vaccine investments, now that the emergency phase of the COVID-19 pandemic has mainly passed."

The federal funding earmarked for Project NextGen would, however, appear to address this issue.

Other challenges the CIDRAP team identified include the "lack of corporate incentives, uncertainty around public demand for a broadly protective vaccine, and the feasibility of expanding vaccine production capacity."

Gellin, however, said in a Feb. 21 University of Minnesota press release that: "Time and time again, we have seen that investment in science brings solutions. The COVID-19 pandemic galvanized the research community and advanced vaccine R&D efficiently and through broad collaborations," essentially previewing Project NextGen.

On April 20, CIDRAP will hold a one-hour "scientific webinar," open to the public, presenting their "roadmap."

Republican lawmakers, Fauci pressed for 'Warp Speed 2.0'

Political wrangling delayed the funding of Project NextGen, according to the Post, which reported that Republicans insisted that funds were left over from prior COVID-19 aid packages.

Ultimately, HHS "shifted funds intended for coronavirus testing and other priorities" into the new initiative.

Dr. Anthony Fauci was one of the voices who "spent months pressing Congress for billions of dollars that could be used to develop next-generation vaccines and treatments," the Post reported, adding that these arguments "largely fell flat" in the face of Republican opposition.

However, according to the Post, "Even some of the Republicans who blocked the White House's coronavirus funding requests last year said they wanted a 'Warp Speed 2.0' to push updated vaccines and treatments that would better fight the virus."

In August 2022, former Sens. Richard Burr (R-N.C.) and James Inhofe (R-Okla.) wrote to President Biden, stating "Operation Warp Speed was the most successful public health program since small pox. It saved millions of lives, and it should be resurrected as soon as possible."

Dawn O'Connell, assistant secretary for Preparedness and Response at HHS, told the Post that the Biden administration learned lessons from Operation Warp Speed, including how to speed up vaccine development, and that these lessons would be applied to Project NextGen.

"We've learned a lot in these three years," O'Connell said. She added that some of the lab work related to Project NextGen has begun, and that the government has launched efforts to identify potential partners in the private sector.

"We've begun surveying the landscape out there — assessing what vaccine candidates are available, [and] moving through what exciting technologies are there," she said.

According to the Post, O'Connell and her team informed companies working on the development of monoclonal antibodies that the government may soon make new investments in the technology.

Jha, however, refused to set a timetable for when new products developed under the aegis of Project NextGen would be available to the public, the Post reported.

"The timelines are really going to be predicated on how quickly the scientific advancements continue, and how quickly we can study and measure the efficacy and safety of these products," Jha said.

Project NextGen is also still without a leader, with the White House "still considering candidates," according to the Post, which noted that the process is slowed down by "Democrats' desire to avoid questions of conflicts of interest that dogged Operation Warp Speed, after Trump officials selected Moncef Slaoui, a pharmaceutical industry executive with significant stock holdings, to lead that program."

Subscribe to The Defender – It's Free!

First Name.. Last Name.. Email.. SIGN UP

SUGGEST A CORRECTION

Michael Nevradakis, Ph.D.

Michael Nevradakis, Ph.D., based in Athens, Greece, is a senior reporter for The Defender and part of the rotation of hosts for CHD.TV's "Good Morning CHD."

Sign up for free news and updates from Robert F. Kennedy, Jr. and Children's Health Defense. CHD is planning many strategies, including legal, in an effort to defend the health of our children and obtain justice for those already injured. Your support is essential to CHD's successful mission.

Republishing Guidelines

Children's Health Defense Comment Policy

We welcome relevant and respectful comments. Off-topic comments may be removed.

Please read our Comment Policy before commenting.

Got it

173 Comments Login

Join the discussion…

LOG IN WITH OR SIGN UP WITH DISQUS ?

Name

10 • Share Best Newest Oldest

Tony Porcaro
6 days ago

What a lot of B.S.! We have learned nothing from the past three years and are ready to allow government and the usual nefarious actors experiment with our lives once again; changing the name of this ill-conceived project only adds to the scam of again perpetrating the same hoax on a defenceless public.

75 0 Reply • Share ›

Barbara → Tony Porcaro
6 days ago

They should call it what it is. Operation Death Shot. Shame on the FBI, CIA and anyone else enabling this evil program.

33 0 Reply • Share ›

GarySummers → Barbara
6 days ago

Under 'President Obama', 'Dr. Fauci', US NIH, approved & U.S. government gave (Taxpayers) $3.7million grant to Wuhan lab at center of coronavirus leak scrutiny that was performing experiments on bats from the caves where the disease is believed to have originated.
https://www.dailymail.co.uk...

Did Coronavirus 'break out' of a Bio-Lab George Soros 'owns in Wuhan, China'?
https://shuzheng.wordpress....

The Company that plans to 'distribute Remdesivir', 'UNITAID', a therapy for Covid#19 'Gates, Soros's and Clintons, Obamas, have a Financial Interest'?
One billionaire investor behind UNITAID is 'George Soros' himself . But why stop there? UNITAID is also financed by the 'Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation' and also involves a partnership with the 'Clinton Health Access Initiative' (CHAI). And interestingly enough both UNITAID and Gilead Bioscinces 'supported' Hillary Clinton for president in 2016 .
https://civilianintelligenc...

17 0 Reply • Share ›

Rivers → GarySummers
4 days ago

Sick sick sick sick

6 0 Reply • Share ›

boxerdoglover → Rivers
2 days ago

No, not sick, demonic to the core.

8 0 Reply • Share ›

AlohaFreedomFighter_JMJ → boxerdoglover
2 days ago

Bingo !!! Demon$ of DePopulation by POI$ON Injecticide

3 0 Reply • Share ›

This comment was deleted.

ogam5 → Guest
5 days ago

.....while COLUMBIA University professor Erlich started OFF early on with some VIABLE arguments / concerns, by 1975 he'd been COMPLETELY radicalized by the Rockefeller machine RUNNING that institution.....

5 0 Reply • Share ›

John Stone Mod → Guest
5 days ago

Hi Nikki

We do ask commenters not to post dozens of links - please do bear this in mind in future.

0 0 Reply • Share ›

NikkiB → John Stone
4 days ago edited

I do understand however with information being everyday deleted to me it is of more importance to spread as much information far and wide as we possibly can. I understand why a moderator and or editor finds it inconvenient and not aesthetically pleasing and what have you. People are being misinformed and lied to, George Soros has fact checkers and no doubt Bill Gates does too. Information is being quickly wiped and people are being attacked for trying to bring information to people. But, I do understand.

2 0 Reply • Share ›

SEK → John Stone
2 days ago

Actually, John Stone, the posts by others in these comment sections is often more helpful or has deeper or wider based information than anything the person writing the original article had to say. I have followed quite a few links or comments to a clearer perspective for the past ten years, including those in posts by those now deemed the 'disinformation dozen'. The disinfo-twelve literally saved my life back then and I may not have discovered them without the comments others posted, me being a 'traditionally-trained' (aka psy-opted) biologist. Ironically, that includes CHD!!!

1 0 Reply • Share ›

Jon Ferrari → Tony Porcaro
6 days ago

Sorry to say this. I don't usually wish this upon anyone but I'm just disgusted with our politicians and "health care agencies. the whole system is sickening (no pun intended) and I'm starting to wish death upon ALL those involved in funding, creating and administering ANY vaccine. We have learned the truth about vaccines yet it seems congress turns a deaf ear to it all. God bless those who stand against these kill shots and death to all those involved in creation of them, ESPECIALLY these big pharma being held accountable for ANY injuries/deaths suffered after being injected. To Gates, Fauci, the Rockefellers and any other Hitler like monsters involved in the vax industry which causes so much harm to millions worldwide without being held accountable, I wish the harshest of injuries and/or death. Sorry, but this is how I feel.Wake Up World and Resist these scumbags or serve ubder them, and for the rest of your life. http://WTFUPAMERICA.com and>>> StartSpreadingTheTruth.com

17 0 Reply • Share ›

Jacek R → Jon Ferrari
6 days ago

Jon, I feel your frustration. Stay positive. The evil forces want us to be frustrated. Sadly, it looks like Congress and most of the politicians, are starting to act like Monica Lewinsky. Whenever they hear the crinkling of dollar bills, they put their kneepads on and get to work. Don't give up the ship.!

4 0 Reply • Share ›

GarySummers → Jon Ferrari
6 days ago

"RFK Jr. on the Vaccine $ "Gold Rush"; $ Anthony Fauci Hardest Hit"
https://rumble.com/v2h3ody-...

4 0 Reply • Share ›

AlohaFreedomFighter_JMJ → Jon Ferrari
2 days ago

GOD "will take Care of these Demons" in HIS time and in HIS way !!! You don't mess with GOD !

1 0 Reply • Share ›

TruthHunter → AlohaFreedomFighter_JMJ
2 days ago

Right - however - God's people better wake up because the tribulation is not just for the evil. It will affect us all.

1 0 Reply • Share ›

GrouchyMathGrad → Tony Porcaro
6 days ago

A LOT of people have learned from the last three years. Unfortunately, one of the things we've learned is that the pharma lobby is very, very powerful.

But as disastrous as this "Next Gen" project will be, I don't think the proponents of it realize how much trust has been lost, how badly that will affect the uptake of any of their poison shots. Also, they don't know what kind of fireworks (AKA civil war) they might set off if they are bound and determined to put these shots in the arms of every legal US resident.

4 0 Reply • Share ›

Dani → GrouchyMathGrad
2 days ago

Yes, so I wonder how they can "guarantee" a market for these vaccines??? More mandates? Makes me sick working as a nurse. I feel like my job is on the line, I will not take anymore vaccines!

3 0 Reply • Share ›

GarySummers → Tony Porcaro
5 days ago

Breaking & "Sharing Is Caring"
"Leading Genocidal Depopulationists "Schwab, Fauci & Gates" Announce Their Next Weapon Against Humanity" https://rumble.com/v2hwvlw-...

4 0 Reply • Share ›

TruthHunter → Tony Porcaro
2 days ago

Fool me once, shame on you; fool me twice, shame on me. Well, the American public is so naive and easily able to control with fear. Why shouldn't they keep right on with what has worked so well? There are still people that believe the "covid" is a real virus and the "vaccine" (killer shot) will make the covid better!! Like giving more poison to help the poison.

0 0 Reply • Share ›

ogam5
6 days ago edited

......WHAT part of, 'we don't WANT your useless, deadly GARBAGE; never DID!!!!' is it they still CAN'T comprehend?????

47 0 Reply • Share ›

celtic cross → ogam5
6 days ago

But, but, but they spent so much taxpayer dollars developing the virus...so they could develop a "vaccine" for lots of $$$$...and the WH and the Congress critters get so much $upport when they support Big Pharma....What's not to love...for politicians and Gate$ and the Rockefeller$...

26 0 Reply • Share ›

CastleConnell → celtic cross
6 days ago

Look at the money they made on an unsafe and ineffective product; why would they stop now?

19 0 Reply • Share ›

Jacek R → CastleConnell
5 days ago

You're right, Castle. Any other business that tried to sell a product that was that bad, would fall flat on their face in one year or less. The propaganda on the MSM, and foolish mandates, like the ones required for airline travel, and employment, are keeping the ugliness alive.

3 0 Reply • Share ›

Rivers → celtic cross
4 days ago

The problem is
PUBLIC PRIVATEPARTNERSHIPS

FASCISM - END OF SRIRY

5 0 Reply • Share ›

CastleConnell → ogam5
6 days ago

But the majority did want the useless, deadly shots. Actions speak and most took them, and so have paved the way for this fiasco to continue.

16 0 Reply • Share ›

ogam5 → CastleConnell
6 days ago

.....they did THEN - would HAVE to believe at least three-quarters, do NOT now.....

8 0 Reply • Share ›

Corey → ogam5
5 days ago

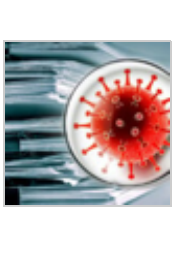
Almost everyone I know is STILL getting their boosters.

0 0 Reply • Share ›

Donate Now

You make the difference.

Latest News



COVID Likely Emerged From Wuhan Lab — and Earlier Than Previously Believed, Senate Report Concludes

Soils in Natural Ecosystems Just as Contaminated as Urban Soils, Study Finds

U.S. Invests $1.5 Billion to Spur 5G Rollout Despite New Evidence of 'Devastating' Health Issues

MORE NEWS

Latest Views

Foods Containing These 5 Toxic Chemicals Could Be Banned Under New Law

Big Ag Panicking Over Bill to Require Labeling of Gene-Altering Products

Risky Weight-Loss Jabs + Declining Life Expectancy for Kids: 'This Week' With Mary + Polly

MORE VIEWS

Get FREE News & Updates!

First Name..
Last Name..
Email..
SIGN UP

Get Text Alerts

Sign up for breaking news from The Defender.

Currently only eligible for numbers in the U.S. and Canada.

1234567890
Phone
REQUIRED. Phone number must be in a standard 10-digit format: 1234567890 or 123-456-7890

CONTINUE

Caroline Cary Davidson ↪ Corey a day ago
I am happy to say that I know no one taking them anymore.
1 0 Reply • Share ›

Emily Summer ↪ ogam5
6 days ago
It's all about the money, honey. Bottom line is the buck.
12 0 Reply • Share ›

ogam5 ↪ Emily Summer
6 days ago
.....a Bay City Rollers reference, do I detect there? LOL
0 0 Reply • Share ›

Caty ↪ ogam5
6 days ago
You know, but they continue to push the genre of genocide, there are too many of us.

see more

7 0 Reply • Share ›

GarySummers ↪ Caty
6 days ago
"Learn The Risks"
PHARMA: AN INDUSTRY THAT PUTS PROFITS BEFORE PATIENTS?

The pharmaceutical industry is one of the largest moneymakers in the world, with more than a trillion dollars in profits every year. It's an industry that heavily influences our healthcare system, yet, it only profits when people are sick. Many people don't realize that there's no money made off healthy people.

Here are ten things you should know:
https://learntherisk.org/ph...
10 0 Reply • Share ›

Anita Ann ↪ GarySummers
5 days ago
That's a great site. Thanks for sharing.
2 0 Reply • Share ›

ogam5 ↪ Caty
6 days ago edited
.....OTHER names to know: Ralph Baric, Peter Daszak, Peter Strzok, Raul Emmanuel, Donald Rumsfeld, Michael Callahan (CIA / Harvard / DARPA at Wuhan BL-4) Robert Kadlec, Andre Hoffmann, Jeremy Farrar ('Wellcome Trust', looming WHO mouthpiece) Frederic Tangy (at L'Institut de Pasteur.....)
4 0 Reply • Share ›

Heisenberg
6 days ago
Anything being funded by Gates and the Rockefellers is a recipe for depopulation. Sadly there's still a large chunk of society that refuses to acknowledge this vaccine corruption and will gleefully jump in line to be a lab rat for the next round of whatever.
38 0 Reply • Share ›

Tina ↪ Heisenberg
6 days ago
Those people you speak of don't believe that Gates and the Rockefellers have been involved in population control for years. They think that is conspiracy and they don't want to hear about it. Same people who stood in lines or were running out of gas waiting to get in for a vaccine. It is unnerving that so many people can't see what is in front of their nose.
9 0 Reply • Share ›

GetCheckedNow ↪ Heisenberg
5 days ago
Big Pharma began with Rockefeller

Toxicology vs Virology
Rockefeller Institute & the Criminal Polio Fraud
https://odysee.com/@drsamba...

See also: www.viroLIEgy.com

And
Virology for Developing Countries... and Virus Fanatics
https://odysee.com/@drsamba...
5 0 Reply • Share ›

James Clarence ↪ Heisenberg
5 days ago
Perhaps this is thinning out those predisposed to believe every lie of the Satanic Medical and Pharmaceutical killing machine! No one cares for you are your children, but Christ, the politicians will soon be replaced by Him upon whose shoulders the government will rest for eternity.
2 0 Reply • Share ›

John Stiles
6 days ago
The name "Operation Warp Speed" was lifted straight from Star Trek, a TV science fiction series.
Next we have "Project NextGen", lifted from a Star Trek spinoff. Science fiction- fake science.
32 0 Reply • Share ›

SYakoban ↪ John Stiles
6 days ago
Perfectly analyzed! Spock would be proud. (wait, that's an emotion?)
7 0 Reply • Share ›

John Stiles ↪ SYakoban
5 days ago
Up next: "Live Long Covid and Prosper"
2 0 Reply • Share ›

Ama Dietz ↪ John Stiles
6 days ago
I love the Trekkie nod! Brilliant!
3 0 Reply • Share ›

BarryStern
6 days ago
Operation Warp Speed was the biggest mistake of the Trump administration. The efficacy of childhood vaccines is suspect, even today, since standard research practices to ascertain long-term safety were never used. Using a totally new and untested approach using mRNA gene therapy without investigating its long-term impact is close to criminal. Until Dr. Scott Atlas from Stanford was brought aboard by the Trump WH, he was getting poor advice from his in-house team of health bureaucrats who hadn't treated patients for years. Besides, CDC, FDA, NIAID and NIH had been agencies captured by Pharma and the medical establishment for years. Collectively, the health care industry with its bad advice and corrupt intent killed or maimed many more Covid patients than it saved.
30 0 Reply • Share ›

GrouchyMathGrad ↪ BarryStern
6 days ago edited
"close to criminal?" Just criminal. Not necessarily on Trump's part, but on his medical advisors' parts.
5 0 Reply • Share ›

Georgia Hillstrom ↪ BarryStern
6 days ago
don't you think the drug companies/Fauci got everyone scared, told Trump lies and all of us to try to push their horrible killing agenda
4 0 Reply • Share ›

NikkiB ↪ Georgia Hillstrom
5 days ago
I just would look back at the history as they tend to like repeating it.
https://www.history.com/new...

Children's Health Defense®

Children's Health Defense® is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization. Our mission is to end childhood health epidemics by working aggressively to eliminate harmful exposures, hold those responsible accountable and establish safeguards to prevent future harm. We fight corruption, mass surveillance and censorship that put profits before people as well as advocate for worldwide rights to health freedom and bodily autonomy.

EN ES FR

SUBSCRIBE - IT'S FREE! BECOME A MEMBER MEMBER LOGIN

Donations are tax deductible to the full extent of the law. EIN #26-0388604

Children's Health Defense • Legal Disclaimer • Terms of Use • Privacy Policy • Donate • Work for CHD • Whistleblowers Welcome • Contact • Social • Sitemap

© 2016 – 2023 Children's Health Defense® - All Rights Reserved

We use cookies to ensure that we give you the best experience on our website. You consent to our cookies if you continue to use our website. OK Privacy Policy